Atlantic Coast Whipped

HALIFAX, Dec. 19 (CP). — Winter's first danger-packed storm sent women and children scurrying for shelter in western Newfoundland today and left a trail of wreckage across the other Atlantic provinces.

At Stephenville Crossing, on Newfoundland's west coast, small boats evacuated women and children to shelter when gale-whipped waves covered the streets.

The storm combined the wallop of 85-mile winds with rain and snow as it whipped across southern New Brunswick and Nova Scotia in a freakish turmoil.

Fires, interrupted rail, air and shipping schedules and wrecked communication and power lines were the result.

The Atlantic provinces, which had been basking in balmy weather earlier while other parts of Canada struggled with winter's onslaught, counted one fatality. At Mahon Bay, N.S., six-year-old Harold Haughan died after being struck by a skidding truck.

TRAINS LATE

The weather was so bad along the St. Lawrence River that working crews could not stay out. All trains were operating four to five hours late.

Volunteer firemen at Rogersville, N.B., fought a $40,000 blaze which threatened the entire village in near zero weather. The blaze was controlled after destroying a hotel, bank, store and three homes.

At Saint John, N.B., fire caused about $30,000 damage to a wing of a hotel.

The salvage tug Foundation Lillian had to fight a frustrating battle to bring the disabled trawler Cape Smokey into Halifax.

Meanwhile, clearing skies in Alberta and Saskatchewan after winds ranging from 30 to 40 miles an hour Tuesday were expected to usher in lower temperatures.

Another batch of heavy snow and Arctic cold began moving across the storm-weary U.S. midwest today.

There Was Another Phone . . .

Gun-Brandishing Robbers Get $300, Fire One Shot

Hillside Confectionery Held Up; Pair Escapes

By BRUD DELANY

Two thugs, both brandishing automatics, late last night robbed the Fountain Confectionery, Hillside and Douglas, of almost $300 in bills and after running out of the door fired a shot through the window.

The brief, smoothly-executed robbery took place in the combination grocery-coffee bar while five employees and customers stood by unaware and two other customers came in, made purchases and left.

Minutes after the holdup, all roads leading from the city were covered. Cars were stopped and drivers were questioned.

But at press time this morning there was still no trace of the pair.

DARK GLASSES

Fred G. McBratney, 51-year-old proprietor of the store said he was just counting the day's receipts shortly before the 11 p.m. closing time when two men, both wearing dark glasses, black felt hats and light raincoats, came in.

He said the taller of the two—"about five feet, nine inches tall" and "close to 40"—stepped up close to the counter, drew a Luger automatic and said:

"Okay, this is a holdup. Take it easy and put the bills only in a paper bag."

McBratney said that while he was doing this the same man—"he did all the talking"—asked where the 'phone was and when told jerked his head at the other bandit and ordered him to pull the cord out.

BREAKS PHONE CORD

The storekeeper said the second thug, who was also holding a Luger in his hand immediately walked across the store and yanked the cord from the wall.

"Just then a customer came up and gave me money for a loaf of bread. I placed the bag of money which I had taken from the till on the counter and made the change. The customer said 'good-night' and walked out."

McBratney added that while the transaction went on, both bandits slipped their guns under their coats.

When the taller man showed his weapon again the proprietor said he told him: "I'm not worried. I'm giving you what I've got—it's insured."

At this point the second customer made a purchase and then left "without noticing a thing wrong."

"When I had emptied the till of the $264 in bills it contained I added about $25 payout money I had for bills under the counter."

"Then the two of them left. Nothing further was said.

"When they got out the door they walked quickly east on Hillside. After I gathered my wits in a minute or two I went toward the door, but stopped when a shot came crashing through the window."

"Then my son, his friend and the waitress came running up from the fountain, but I told them to go back, that it was dangerous."

PAY PHONE OVERLOOKED

McBratney then went to the pay telephone booth which the bandits had overlooked and telephoned the police.

In the store at the time were the proprietor's daughter, Jean, 27; his son, Dick, 22; his friend, Leon Fernette, 21, 1048 Queens, both drinking coffee at the bar; fountain waitress, Mrs. M. Quagliotti, 26, 3445 Cobb Lane; Roy Parrett, 30, 740 Cowper, in the grocery section.

They all said that they suspected nothing until they heard the shot. Only Parrett noticed the men at all. His description of the men tallied with McBratney's except he added that the taller bandit wore tweed trousers and the other greenish trousers.

Mrs. Quagliotti said McBratney's habit of counting money in the open each night had always worried her.

"I've seen Fred counting his cash there by the window lots of times and it has worried me. It's too open to people passing by."

Jean McBratney said she had just got off the 11 p.m. Hillside bus at the stop by the store and she saw the two men.

"At first I thought I knew them, but when I walked into the store after them I realized that I didn't. After that I didn't pay much attention to them. I was just waiting until Dad locked up and took us home."

The midnight boat to Vancouver was thoroughly checked by city detectives before sailing. R.C.M.P. were at Pat Bay and all Greater Victoria police were checking every possible angle of the case.

Said one police official last night:

"We're taking all precautions and all available cars and constables are on the job, but I don't think that they'll be foolish enough to leave town tonight."

"It came through here," Dick McBratney says, pointing to the hole in the confectionery window made by a bullet from the gun of one of the thugs who held up his father's store at Hillside and Douglas about 11 last night.—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Canadians Serving With U.S. Listed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (CP). — Six members of the United States armed forces with next of kin in Canada were listed by the war department today among Allied prisoners of war in Communist North Korea.

Their names were among 3,198 U.S. prisoners handed by the Communist enemy to United Nations truce negotiators in Korea, and were released as the huge job of doublechecking and clarifying the U.S. prisoner list progressed at U.S. defense headquarters.

The U.S. prisoners with Canadian next of kin are:

Sgt. Daniel Martinez, U.S. 7th Division, whose wife, Mrs. Hogana Martinez, lives at Toronto.

Cpl. John A. Davis, whose mother, Mrs. Edna D. Brooker, lives at St. Catharines, Ont.

Pete Yvon J. Maillet, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donat Maillet, live at St. Edward, N.B.

Sgt. Kenneth E. Kisser, whose wife, Mrs. Dorothy May Kisser, lives at Winnipeg.

Pte. Richard D. Drennan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Drennan of Kingsville, Ont.

Pte. Charles Sacco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sacco of Guelph, Ont.

Davis served with the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division; Maillet, with the 4th Infantry Division, and Kisser, who served in the air force, were reported held at Pyok-Dong, near the Yalu River.

Drennan, attached to the U.S. 24th Division, and Sacco, with the 2nd Infantry Division, were listed at the Red P.O.W. camp at Changsong.

Gnr. John Orval Jenkins, R.C.A., of Hamilton, Ont., was the only Canadian soldier whose name appeared on the Communist prisoner list. He, too, was reported held at Pyok-Dong.

Exchange Study Extended

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 20 (Thursday) (AP). — The Allies today informed the Communists they need more time to analyze the Red prisoner exchange.

An Allied liaison officer early today carried the message to the conference town of Panmunjom.

He told the Reds it was not known how soon the Allied delegates would complete their exhaustive task and be ready to resume talks on the exchange of prisoners.

A second sub-committee discussing supervision of the truce was going ahead with its daily talks, however. The Allies were insisting on effective supervision of a truce and a lid on military buildup.

The Allies were unhappy with the prisoner list furnished by the Reds. The 11,559 names were unofficially considered unrealistic. About 10 times that number of Allied soldiers are missing.

U.N. officers sat far into the night Wednesday making a painstaking name-by-name check of the list.

Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Turner, head of the Allied truce supervision committee, informed the Reds that the next move must come from the Communist side.

Drew Asserts Price Bill Used to Take Attention

OTTAWA, Dec. 19 (CP). — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, claimed today that the government was trying to distract attention from its lack of action against the high cost of living by pushing through legislation to prohibit resale price maintenance.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and his supporters had admitted, said Mr. Drew, that the legislation would have little effect on the cost of living. He suggested that if the government really wanted to tackle the cost-of-living problem it would reduce taxes, cut expenditures and remove some credit restrictions.

Mr. Drew spoke as debate on the bill to prohibit the fixing of retail prices by manufacturers and suppliers was carried through its third day mainly by Progressive Conservative and Liberal members.

With no end of the debate in sight, Prime Minister St. Laurent served notice that unless the work of the session is completed by adjournment hour Friday, members will be asked to return Dec. 27 to handle the remaining business.

Attendance in the chamber decreased with each departing train as members, particularly from distant points, left to return home for Christmas. Samuel Balcolm (L-Halifax) suggested in the chamber that those who have remained should be provided with free air transportation home.

The debate, as was the case yesterday, was marked by some name calling, laughter and noisy scenes.

Holdup Man Interrupted

By MAURY GWYNNE

A bread-buying customer interrupted a $300 holdup last night long enough to make his purchase and walk out of the Fountain Confectionery without knowing that the man he had been standing by was pointing a loaded gun at the proprietor.

The customer, Roy V. Parrett of 740 Cowper, had walked some distance from the store before he heard the shot that shattered the window, and returned to find that the two men at the counter with the paper bag had been holdup men.

"I was standing right there at the bread counter when they came in," he said. "Not more than five feet away, I guess."

Fred McBratney, proprietor of the confectionery, remained calm enough to serve Parrett without giving any indication of what was going on.

"Coolest thing I ever saw," Parrett said.

Asked how long it was before the shot was fired, Parrett said, "It was a good two minutes after they came out of the store."

Fall on Steps Injures Woman

Mrs. Nancy C. Vaughn, 92, 2753 Richmond, was in "only fair" condition in the Royal Jubilee Hospital last night, after falling down a flight of basement steps in her home, sustaining severe face lacerations and a possible fractured skull.

Her daughter, Mrs. E. G. McNeilly, was in the basement of the house at the time and said that she believes her mother mistook the basement door for the door of the pantry.

Sgt. Jack Hamilton and Constable L. Ledson of the Saanich police attended and rushed Mrs. Vaughn to the hospital in the emergency car.

Fire Destroys Seven Racers

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., Dec. 19 (AP). — Seven harness racing horses died tonight as fire levelled a 14-stall privately-owned barn near Saratoga raceway.

Firemen fought the blaze in sub-zero weather but flames quickly raced through the structure.

West Wins Support For Disarmament Plan

PARIS, Dec. 19 (CP) — The West's disarmament proposal for a new United Nations disarmament commission won overwhelming support today. Canada would be a member of the commission.

The political committee approved the plan which calls for atomic and other controls in preference to the Russian demand for a paper declaration prohibiting atomic weapons and a straight one-third arms cut.

The West's majority was not the highest in U.N. history on similar western proposals but it was above that of two years ago.

Western voting victories on disarmament and the commission on Germany coincided with the end of comparatively soft talk in the present session as Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky of Russia lashed out at the United States.

The British-American-French proposals to set up a disarmament commission and make a new start toward the peaceful goal of limited world armaments was adopted 44 to 5 with 10 countries abstaining and Burma refusing to take part.

In adopting the program the committee by an equally impressive vote turned down Russia's insistent demand for an immediate ban on the atomic bomb, with enforcement of the ban to be left to the future.

That vote was 42 to 6 with nine abstentions.

While this was going on in the political committee, a special committee brushed aside violent Soviet bloc opposition and approved the western Big Three's plan for a neutral commission to look into the chances of holding free secret elections throughout Germany. The vote was 45 to 6 with eight abstentions.

A Fine Time Had By All

Pair May Pay Another Visit

LONDON, Dec. 19 (CP). — Princess Elizabeth may fulfill sooner than expected her promise to pay a return visit to Canada "before too long."

Under a plan now being studied, the Royal visit to Australia and New Zealand early next year may involve a trans-Atlantic flight home by way of Canada.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said today this is one of two possible methods of returning now under consideration. The other route by-passes Canada.

The return via Canada, if adopted, would involve a flight from Wellington, N.Z., to Fiji, with subsequent stops at Hawaii and Vancouver.

Korean Front Fog-Wrapped

SEOUL, Dec. 20 (Thursday) (AP) — The twilight war in Korea ended its third week last night with only light action along the fog-bound front.

Country Road Conditions Still Bad; More Snow Flurries Expected Today

Clouds, continuing cold and snow flurries are the best that the weather man can do for Greater Victoria today.

Road conditions in the outlying districts and in most of the Up-Island centres are still bad and all police forces advise motorists to drive with extreme caution, particularly on the Island Highway and the Malahat Drive.

Saanich police report that both the East and West Saanich Roads are coated with frozen snow and ice and motorists are advised to use tire chains and drive with extreme care.

On the Malahat, icy conditions still prevail and R.C.M.P. officers are asking drivers to avoid passing the summit if possible. Chains are needed from the 16-mile post to the north side.

Further north, conditions have not changed. In Duncan there were light snow flurries yesterday and freezing temperatures.

The road to Lake Cowichan is reported to be very dangerous and chains are needed if the trip has to be made. Several cars went off this road yesterday.

MORE SNOW

At Nanaimo there was a little more snow yesterday and the temperature remained at freezing. Most of the roads are reported to be cleared, but there were still a few icy patches in the shaded areas and driving was hazardous.

There were two cars off the road in this district yesterday, one at Departure Bay and one near the Outdoor theatre, about four miles north of Nanaimo.

The temperature at Courtenay remained at freezing yesterday, but there was no snow. Road condition was reported to be good with icy patches in the shaded spots.

In the Alberni Valley, snow that fell to a depth of four inches on Monday turned to slush and then froze yesterday.

Sidewalks and streets were still very treacherous and driving is almost impossible unless cars are equipped with chains.

Telegraph and telephone services were out due to the heavy fall on Monday but were partly resumed Tuesday.

Despite the serious conditions, there were no serious traffic accidents.

First of Cigarettes Probably in Korea

By the time you read this, Canadian soldiers in Korea should be smoking the first shipment of familiar brand cigarettes made possible by The Colonist Cigarette Fund.

Advice was received yesterday from the Imperial Tobacco Company in Montreal that 343,000 smokes of various Canadian types and 360 packages of pipe tobacco left Dorval airport by R.C.A.F. airlift and should arrive in Korea early today.

Distribution will be made among the approximately 5,000 troops of the 25th Brigade.

Shipment represents a first installment of $1,500 worth of smokes. A second shipment will go forward as soon as sufficient funds are on hand.

And that should be in the near future. Yesterday's contributions—including $10 from the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion on Salt Spring Island—totaled $82, bringing the grand total to $2,043.80.

Handicaps No Bar for Arthur Barnes

Wants to Learn to Dance

Blind, One-Handed Pupil Doing Well in Swim Class

By RAY WORMALD

When a man sets his mind to it, he can accomplish almost anything—even if he is totally blind and one-handed.

Arthur Barnes, Victoria's now famous boatbuilder, is proving this to a marked degree.

About a month ago he joined the special Pro-Rec swimming class which caters to sightless and otherwise physically handicapped persons. The club meets every Tuesday afternoon at the Crystal Garden pool, and its membership is now 10, with an equal number of sighted "guides."

Art has attended three lessons, and class instructor Mrs. Daisy Goodspeed reports he is "doing exceptionally well." He has learned an elementary backstroke, and is now mastering a side stroke and the art of sculling and floating.

Swimming is just another in a series of remarkable accomplishments of the sightless and one-handed man.

Art operates his own confectionery store at 3586 Quadra. Much of his spare time these days is spent on his latest boat-building project—a 14-foot sailing craft which is nearing completion. It is the third boat he has built, the earlier ones being a rowboat and a yacht tender.

Some time ago the Victoria Inboard - Outboard Association and The Daily Colonist raised sufficient funds to provide Art with a new "grip-type" artificial hand, to replace a clumsy and awkward steel hook he wore on his right wrist.

Since then he has learned to play a guitar, roll his own cigarettes and a host of other activities. He is a full-time member of the inboard-outboard boating group, and attends every meeting.

Members of the sightless swimming class are anxious to learn square dancing and modern dances. They have asked Mrs. Goodspeed to act as their instructor and she has consented. Classes will get under way early next year, shortly after completion of the new C.N.I.B. building.

And Art is one class member most keen to "start kickin' my heels on a dance floor."

Runaway Motorbike Stumps Police

City police are still at a loss to understand what caused one of their motorcycles to take off up Fisgard Street yesterday morning and crash into a telephone pole at Douglas.

Police Chief John Blackstock said Const. Edward Hamer started the machine in front of the police garage and left it for a moment with the motor running.

Next thing he knew it was on its way up Fisgard without a driver. The sidecar was extensively damaged in the collision with the pole.

One explanation is the machine could have been left in gear with the clutch disengaged. The vibration could have engaged the clutch causing the machine to move.

In the first eight months of this year British Columbia produced 2,366,494,000 feet board measure of sawn lumber, 17,000,000 feet more than was produced in all the other provinces combined.

Lime Products Used in B.C., 25,000 Tons

Total lime products used in soil treatment in British Columbia under an official subsidy policy during the current fiscal year exceeds 25,000 tons, G. L. Landon of the B.C. Lime Committee reports.

Mr. Landon said yesterday that if present consumption rates continue, a total of 35,000 tons will be used by March 31 under the policy.

If the estimated figure is correct, amount used will be 35 per cent higher than the 1950 record of 26,235 tons, he said.

Bulk of the lime is applied to lower Fraser Valley farmlands with lesser amounts going to Vancouver Island and Interior points, he said.

Joy in American Homes As War Prisoners Listed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (AP). —American families by the thousands rejoiced with tears of happiness today at word that their fighting men were listed by the enemy as still alive in prison-of-war camps in Korea.

But for thousands of others, the agony of suspense, heartbreak and tragedy only deepened as [illegible] ting from Tokyo the full roster of names supplied by the Communists—and great numbers still are missing.

Tonight the Defense Department was about a third of the way along with the task of releasing the list in more detailed form. This listing, which unlike the Tokyo roster, contained hometown addresses, involved a great deal of cross-checking.

The Reds listed only 3,198 American prisoners of war. Those are the names they turned over to Allied truce negotiators. Latest U.S. official figures list 11,051 Americans missing in action. A lone Canadian soldier and three American soldiers with Canadian next-of-kin were on the list.

President Truman warned that the Communist reports are unverified. The enemy refused to permit Red Cross inspection of its camps.

White House secretary Joseph Short told reporters:

The President has asked me to urge every news medium to stress as often as possible that the prisoner-of-war list is entirely unverified.

"This country has no way of verifying whether the list is accurate or inaccurate, true or false, complete or incomplete.

"For the sake of the families whose sons are missing in action, everyone should treat this list with skepticism."

A military spokesman told reporters today:

"The number of discrepancies has been negligible both in number and in type."

This meant that almost all the names checked so far were found in Washington's own official list of the missing.

AP wires finished the task after 13 hours transmission.

Frostbite Kills Rescued Pilot

CALGARY, Dec. 19 (CP).—FO. Cyril Douglas Wilken, 27, of Redvers, Sask., died in Col. Belcher Hospital of frostbite and exposure suffered while trapped, 40 sub-zero hours in a wrecked R.C.A.F. trainer plane high up a southern Alberta mountain last week.

Wilken's hands and feet were badly frostbitten. A doctor said effects of such deep frostbite were very severe on the whole body.

Mrs. Wilken was at the hospital bedside today before her husband died. She was flown to the city from Trenton, Ont., about midnight last night aboard an R.C.A.F. plane.

The air force pilot was ferrying a Harvard aircraft from Trenton to Claresholm, Alta., via Calgary when he was caught in a snowstorm last Wednesday. Unable to land at Calgary, he was heading south for Claresholm when he got off course and crashed at the 7,000-foot level of Mount Head, about 40 miles southwest of Calgary.

Discovery of Air Stowaway May Have Saved His Life

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19 (INS).—A stowaway who might have died from lack of oxygen was found today in the cargo compartment of a Chicago-bound Trans World Airlines passenger plane as it was climbing to its 18,000 to 20,000-foot cruising altitude.

T.W.A. identified the stowaway as Glen C. Kull, Jr., 23-year-old Chinese of Sunnyvale, Calif., who was employed several weeks ago as a T.W.A. cargo agent at San Francisco airport.

Two weeks ago Kull asked for a leave of absence, saying he had to report to the U.S. Naval Reserve. The company learned that instead of being in the reserve he was in the regular navy.

Last night he showed up at the airport and was discovered trying to stow away on a T.W.A. flight to Kansas City.

When flight 1154 departed for Chicago this morning with 37 passengers aboard, Kull "was conspicuous by his absence" at the airport, the company reported.

A radiophone message to Capt. Art Nelson, skipper of the plane, soon was answered:

"Found stowaway in cargo compartment. Proceeding Chicago."

A company spokesman added:

"He will get his ride to Chicago and then get another ride after landing."

Vishinsky Blasts U.S., Charges Fliers Spies

PARIS, Dec. 19 (AP).—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky in a bitter anti-American tirade today charged four U.S. fliers held in Hungary were spies and said he hoped they would get "due attention" from Communist military and judicial authorities.

But he refused to be pinned down as to whether he meant the four fliers would be tried by a military court.

The charge was loosed in an angry, vitriolic attack in which the Soviet minister demanded before the U.N. political committee that it call on the United States to repeal its Mutual Security Act.

He said a section of the law set aside $100,000,000 to organize armed groups inside and outside the iron curtain and was an aggression and a "gross intervention" in internal Soviet affairs.

Vishinsky's attack followed, but did not mention, the Moscow announcement last night that two men, with Russian-sounding names, had been executed after being dropped by an American plane in Moldavia, a former part of Romania, for spying and sabotage purposes. U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson said in Washington today that the story was a fabrication.

Oddities

CHARLESTON, W.Va., Dec. 19 (AP).—W. R. Murphy was offering free Christmas trees today.

Today he gave the Charleston Daily Mail this classified advertisement:

"I bought 1,200 Christmas trees and I ain't getting 'em sold.

"I don't want to burn 'em, so here's the deal—"

The "deal" offered the trees free of charge, or anything the customer wanted to pay.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (AP)—Pondering over the case of the man who yanked out his mother-in-law's false teeth to keep her quiet, Magistrate Thomas H. Cullen today remarked:

"Sometimes it would be better if all of us would not talk too much."

But he held David Ritchie, 35, a machinist, for a hearing Jan. 3 on a grand larceny charge of stealing the false teeth from his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Wood, during an argument.

Ritchie went to see his three children, who lived with his estranged wife and her mother, Sunday night.

When the quarreling began, he allegedly pinned Mrs. Wood to the floor and took her teeth.

Burial Of Saint Proved

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 19 (AP).—Excavation in the Vatican grottos revealed that St. Peter's disciples placed his body "in a humble tomb in the bare earth of the Vatican Hill," L'Osservatore Romano said today.

Pope Pius was presented today with the first two-volume set of books on the excavations.

The Pope, announcing results of the excavations, said in his Christmas message a year ago that they proved the cupola of St. Peter's Basilica rises over the final burial place of Peter.

In an editorial accompanying the descriptive article of the excavations, L'Osservatore declared "the last definite word has been pronounced" on the existence in Rome of St. Peter's tomb.

"Science, which does not believe if it does not see, has seen," it said.

L'Osservatore thereby saw in the discovery of the tomb new proof of the primacy of the Roman pontiffs and their trace to Peter, the first pope.

Bad News for New Year

British Rations Going Down, Prices Up

LONDON, Dec. 19 (CP). — Already facing an austerity Christmas of tightly-rationed basic foodstuffs, British housewives learned today that with the new year their weekly coupons will entitle them to even smaller allowances that will cost them more.

Usually at Christmas the government grants a "ration bonus" with which Mrs. Britain can buy more shortening, sugar and so on for the big day. This year the bonus was canceled.

The government announced today that the weekly bacon ration, raised to four ounces two weeks ago, will be cut back to three ounces from Dec. 30 with all grades to cost an average of 10 pence a pound more. A pound of average-quality bacon now costs three shillings, six pence.

Cheese, rationed at 1½ ounces a person a week, goes up from one shilling two pence to two shillings a pound.

With a full-scale economic crisis on its hands, Winston Churchill's administration is attempting to cut down the subsidies paid to food producers in an effort to keep down consumer costs.

The food ministry said today that subsidies cost taxpayers £375,700,000 for the year 1950-51. This was £20,000,000 less than the previous year.

Announcing the bacon cut, the ministry said it was due to serious outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease in Europe.

Price increases despite subsidies were explained as necessary to meet a general rise in the cost of imported and home-produced supplies.

The changes will hit the average Briton hard. Cheese and bacon are widely used to stretch out the almost non-existent meat ration.

Forest Management

IT WAS to be anticipated that British Columbia would have trouble with the introduction of a forest management policy, all previous efforts in that direction have been stoutly resisted for some 40 years. In our view the province made no mistake in introducing the forest management license and the subsidiary features of the scheme, so long as it was remembered that this was an experimental effort in British Columbia and that it was a case of making haste slowly. It was perhaps natural, too, that the reaction of the administration against attacks against the new policy would be by way of omnibus defense. At the moment some danger arises there. It would be thousand pities if the province came to look upon its forest scheme as perfection, and not subject to change.

British Columbia is not Sweden. Its history for a century past has not been forest management but spoilation; the savage and unrestricted cutting of virgin softwood stands at a rate up to three times their normal capacity for reproduction. That is not anybody's opinion, but a result entered on the record year by year in scaled feet, board measure. In so far as lands once held by the Crown have been alienated not much can be done about that. With lands still in the public domain, however, the province has through its legislature a direct and ready means of control. That is the place to thresh out the incidence of the forest management policy and the rate of its application to any particular section of British Columbia.

Not as a criticism—because the Colonist has followed this beginning effort towards a rotated timber crop with both interest and attention—but in comment upon the cleavage at the present time, the emergence of big logging groups and little logging groups with sharply opposed interests is not a furtherance of the scheme. It has never been the intention to turn the woods over to a handful of powerful operating mergers to the exclusion of the rest of the field. Nor should that ever be done. On the contrary, if forest management is good for the "big" interests, it must be made equally good for the "little" interests, else we shall have a fresh and entirely unwanted monopoly on our hands before the end of the present century. What seems to be needed now is a fresh educational effort on the part of the province, and a good round-table discussion on the whole plan in the legislature at its next session.

Price Maintenance Furore

WHAT had developed into a dull session of parliament suddenly has been sparked to life by the Liberal government's bill to make illegal the practice of certain manufacturers fixing arbitrary prices at which their goods shall be sold at retail. This is turning out to be as controversial a piece of legislation as has reached the Commons in many a day. The first mention of it in the Throne speech sent powerful lobbies scurrying to Ottawa, bent on blocking introduction of the measure in the House.

For a time it looked as if they might succeed, and that the government, by delaying introduction of the bill pending inquiry by a special Commons-Senate committee, was weaseling on its earlier decision to let the bill be voted on this session. Whatever may be the merits of the proposed legislation and whatever its bad features, it is reassuring to see that the government has had the courage to present it to parliament for decision one way or the other without any more delay.

As matters have turned out, proceedings in the special committee, although largely duplicating the exhaustive investigation made by the MacQuarrie commission, have served a useful purpose in that they have informed the public as to the methods used by those practicing price maintenance and the extent to which this anti-competitive system restricts retailers and governs the prices they charge the public. In support of price maintenance, strong efforts were made to convince the committee that in the broad view the system was necessary for the protection of small retailers, and that it benefited consumers in some instances.

The case for and against price fixing has been amply argued before the committee, and the facts elicited are available for the information of members. It is for them to say now whether it would be good or bad to allow manufacturers to go on controlling retail prices. When passage of the bill comes to the vote they should ask themselves one very important question: Whom were they elected to represent?

Not Now So Silent

VICE-ADMIRAL MAINGUY was entirely in character when he held his first press conference as chief of naval staff and told newsmen that the navy was no longer a silent service. The father of the now famed "Mainguy Report" is a firm believer in relating naval tradition to modern concepts of service life, and paramount among these is public desire to be kept posted about the conditions and doings of the men in uniform.

Navies everywhere, except of course in Russia, have become progressively less silent in the last decade. It has come to be recognized even by the stiffest professional officer that the armed services no longer exist as a military machine isolated from civilian affairs. Their success depends entirely on national support. Modern wars or defense preparations involve whole populations, so that even a navy which operates outside land boundaries is tied to the common effort and must rely on the steady backing of the people it represents.

This is forthcoming more readily when no needless hush-hush is invoked, or a false air of mystery set around service activities. Old-time traditionalists forget that the day is gone when men could be swallowed up in uniform and their families kept ignorant as to what was happening to them. This concept has happily all but vanished, as witness the arrangements made for relatives and friends whenever a warship docks at Esquimalt after a long cruise, but Admiral Mainguy's declaration indicates that an even wider public knowledge of naval policies and practices is now seen to be wise.

No one expects that the navy will spill all its secrets. There is much that it must still keep to its silent self, but on the broad plane the R.C.N. will flourish the more it keeps in touch with the public that mans its ships and sustains its ensign.

RADIO LICENSES

Sir,—The honest citizen pays for his radio, for the consumption of electricity it needs and the government license. At present he has free air, until the angels arrive.

It seems to me that the fair way would therefore be to place the responsibility for payment on the companies who provide radios and electricity to the consumer, who would pay anyway.

I will leave it to the "Brain Trusts" to figure out how much the Canadian government will save if it were to adopt the above method, which is a form of free enterprise for the consumer.

PARTY BICKERING

Sir,—The question of party politics and the upheavals in the inner circles seem to be in quite a muddle. Those in control of both Progressive Conservative and Liberal parties seem to act like the ostrich with its head in the sand. Party bickerings will get them nowhere. If their selected leaders are not a public choice, just the head of a machine, then the quicker they make adjustments and changes that will be more acceptable to the general public, would be highly advisable.

What do the general public know of the workings of a political party's inner circle? Practically nothing. If some very unpopular tax or scheme becomes a public burden, and generally considered unjustifiable, then the head of such government department that issues the tax or scheme is held responsible.

In the last Conservative provincial government under Dr. Tolmie, Mr. Jones the then minister of finance, evolved the 1 per cent meal tax. What happened? Political capital was made out of it to such an extent that the Conservatives have been out of office ever since.

Who is responsible for our still more unpopular 3 per cent sales tax? That often works out at one cent on a 15-cent purchase. And a hospital scheme that no one seems to understand, for most of the public are generally in arrears. Such acts are really the basis of disruption and downfall of a party, unless handled very skillfully.

I would like to point out in conclusion that General Pearkes, V.C., M.P., would be a logical representative for any riding, irrespective of any party, as he holds the confidence of the general public in his forthrightness and sterling honesty.

ROAD "REPAIRS"

Sir,—We have lived on Cameron Taggart Road, Cobble Hill, for eight years. During that time we have had a few loads of good-sized stones dumped on the worst patches of this two-mile road. The majority of people living in the country live on side roads, and pay their taxes. Year after year we continually bump in and out of the same potholes and worry about the same blind corners. When we do raise a row we get a few loads of stones dumped on the road. Then the grader comes along and pushes it all into the ditch, until now the road is a muddy, slippery mess. The damage to cars is serious and the slippery, narrow road endangers lives as well. On our road we have a high bank at each end of the road causing the corners to be very dangerous. We have a hill that the mailman and freight trucks, as well as local residents, have to go several extra miles to avoid in the winter months. We have more narrow curves than I can count. Do we have to wait until there is a serious accident before we can have some work done on our road? Last night my husband slid off the road over a five-foot bank. Luckily he was unhurt, because he was driving slowly. But who pays for the damage to our car because the accident was entirely due to the condition of the road after the last grading? The next accident at that point may be more serious.

DISARMAMENT TALKS—DAILY PRESS CONFERENCE

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is J. V. McAree's opinion that if a detective story (or any other) will stand up after a second or a third reading then it is a fine piece of work. I wouldn't subscribe wholly to this idea, but obviously if a book attracts for a second time or more it has some quality of particular appeal. One detective story I should like to read again is Dorothy Sayers' The Nine Tailors, not so much for Lord Peter but for the bell-ringing sequences.

In a repeat literary helping a new set of impressions is received. Things overlooked in the first reading often leap at you in the second. The other day I reread Warwick Deeping's Sorrell and Son, not listed in the book-ish hall of fame but a well-told tale nevertheless. I hadn't noticed it before but this time the author's social snobbishness seemed very pronounced. I had the same feeling when not long ago I browsed for the third time in John Buchan's autobiography, Memory Hold-the-Door. Here I thought I detected a touch of both social and intellectual snobbery and that grieved me, for Buchan is one of my favorite authors. I have read his Hannay books easily five or six times; when I pick them up now it is like visiting old friends. Currently I'm in the midst of one of his serious works, Montrose, but I fancy that in this case one reading will be enough.

* * *

Autobiography I like, which may be why Robert Graves' Goodbye To All That has stood up for me after three readings. Churchill's Early Life I've been through twice, and another biography I would read again in a moment is the life of Edward Carson, first volume only. Rommel I intend to read again when my mind has calmed on the subject of German generals, in conjunction with De Guigand's Operation Victory, the most modest story of the European war yet written, which I have studied twice already.

Some classics I have of course dipped into repeatedly although not always with enthusiasm. Maugham's Of Human Bondage I've read twice. Ditto for Scott's Talisman, Ivanhoe, etc., once at school and later to see what they were really about. Kipling and Conrad (especially the Nigger of the Narcissus) I can usually go back to, but Thackeray I can't abide. One session with Anna Karenina was enough. Boccaccio's Decameron I find sufficiently amusing to bear repetition but I never got half-way through the unexpurgated One Thousand and One Nights.

* * *

I like variety, so can enjoy such incongruities as Ouida's Under Two Flags, Lawrence's Seven Pillars, and the Simon Templar yarns, albeit the Saint is overwritten. Lawrence's epic I deem to be one of the great books of this century, and some chapters I've read over and over again. My reading has wide gaps in it. I know no more of Anthony Adverse or Forever Amber than I do of olives, their outside jackets are familiar but that is all. The Naked and the Dead has passed me by, or vice versa. Wells I don't care much for, or Walpole, or De Maupassant, but Charles Lamb is an opiate and Hugo's Les Miserables affects me profoundly. Dickens suits me in part, and this Christmas I shall either read again the Scrooge story or see it on a local screen. H. V. Morton, Poe, Stephen Leacock, I can always peruse a second time, and Montserrat's The Cruel Sea will, I know, come in for another reading when its initial impact has worn dim.

There are other books and authors to be remembered, naturally, but this random list will do for now. Everyman to his own literary taste, just as with shirts, socks and Christmas ties. The only sound guide about reading, be it first, second or third time, is to please yourself and not be afraid to ignore what the experts tell you.

Reports From Ottawa

PURCHASE of two jet Comet transports for the R.C.A.F. should help clear up disagreement as to just how effective our new jet fighters might be in intercepting enemy jet bombers.

One reason Canada bought these two British jet transports was to use them to simulate bombers in mock attacks on Canadian targets. Coming in at 500 miles an hour, they can test the effectiveness of our radar, and the ability of our F86's and CF100's to shoot them down.

Our jet fighter pilots are likely to find that bringing their camera guns to bear on a jet bomber is an entirely different cup of tea from sighting on a North Star or a C47 poking along at half the Comet's speed.

For instance, a friend recently rode in a Comet which one of the newest R.A.F. fighters tried to intercept. Climbing from zero to 40,000 feet, the fighter was right on course when the Comet pilot moved his stick slightly. The big plane veered and the fighter shot by. Such was the latter's speed that it took him 20 miles to turn—and when he did, he couldn't find the Comet again.

THE other day five Western M.P.'s who rashly bet on Regina in the Grey Cup finals paid off their wager to assistant Commons clerk Ed Hopkins in rum.

As an Easterner, I'd say that is as it should be. In every way.

But the really noteworthy thing about these M.P.'s—whom I won't name in deference to the temperance vote in their ridings—is that they have reasserted, for the first time in several years, the traditional right of every M.P. to wear his hat in the Commons chamber.

Fifty years ago, as old photos show, nearly half the M.P.'s were "covered" as they sat in their places in the Commons. They also wore beards.

Both quaint customs have fallen into disuse. In those days, stylish Van Dykes and solemn mutton chops vied with full beards and the half-nakedness of mere moustaches as the proper facial adornments of our political leaders.

Now there's not a beard in the house, and only a handful of unimpressive moustaches. And instead of looking down at an interesting assortment of beavers, bowlers and silks, the spectator in the gallery shields his eyes from the reflected light from as fine a collection of polished pink pates as you'll find anywhere. By actual count 93 out of 262.

So more power to the valiant five—and not all bald, either—who wore 10-gallon hats in the chamber.

INCIDENTAL Intelligence: When in Rome recently, Finance Minister Abbott did like the Romans and went shopping with a fistful of devalued Lira. His comment: "It doesn't look much like money to me". . . . Defense Minister Claxton seems to have coined the phrase "air division" to describe the 11 squadrons of 18 aircraft each which Canada is sending to Europe as a contribution to General Eisenhower's forces. The term, non-existent in the R.A.F. or U.S.A.F., sounds big. An army division is 18,000 men, and "air division" carries the same connotation of size. . . . A former air minister, C. G. "Chubby" Power, is the M.P.'s M.P. He has 17 Liberal M.P.'s residing in his riding of Quebec South, including Prime Minister St. Laurent. . . . C. P. Edwards, retiring as deputy minister of transport, tells of an American skipper during the war who opened sealed orders at sea directing him to take his cargo to Southampton Island. That's in the Canadian Arctic, but he didn't know. He sailed to Southampton, England, where the British gladly relieved him of his cargo of bulldozers which were supposed to have built an airport in the Arctic.

Taxes and Incomes

(From Industry)

TAXATION figures just released by the department of national revenue show that 2,231,970 people paid income taxes in Canada in 1949. Their average income was $2,881 as compared with $2,513 in 1948. They paid an average tax of $224.

Engineers and architects topped the list with an average income of $10,428, of which the tax collectors took $2,460. They edged out lawyers, who had held first place the year before. Lawyers averaged $9,533 in 1949 and paid an average tax of $2,019. Doctors were in third place with an average income of $9,009 and an average tax of $1,660.

One of the biggest percentage gains was made by farmers, whose average income jumped from $2,887 in 1948 to $3,801 in 1949. Their tax in 1949 averaged $340. Nurses were in last place with an income of $1,604.

Employees averaged $2,589, and their combined incomes made up 78 per cent of the national total. They paid an average tax of $159.

The 1949 report contains an interesting statistical sidelight: In addition to their regular earnings from wages and salaries, employees received $71,501,000 from investments.

Geographically, the revenue men found that taxpayers in Lethbridge, Alberta, had the highest average income—$3,477. Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, was second with $3,143 and St. John's, Newfoundland, was tied for third place with St. Thomas, Ontario, with an average of $3,131. Toronto had 344,000 taxpayers with an average income of $2,949, Montreal 299,360 taxpayers with an average of $3,078, and Vancouver 121,450 taxpayers averaging $2,893.

Although 1949 was considered a good year for business, only 69.6 per cent of the companies listed in the report made a profit on their operations. The remaining 30.4 per cent suffered losses, as compared with 27.5 per cent in 1948.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

The effect of TV on sports attendances is bothering promoters in the United States. From programs viewed thus far, we are more concerned about the effect of TV on TV.

SPORTS PAGE

Take a look at the sports section of your newspaper and tell me how many teams won football games last Saturday. Very few, according to the headlines. Oh, yes, teams went out and bested, captured, clipped; dipped, dropped, downed, drubbed and drowned; edged, grabbed, nipped and knocked; overpowered, punched, routed, ripped, rolled over, rapped, wrecked; romped, rambled and rumbled past and over; surprised, tripped, topped, toppled, turned over, turned on and upset opponents—but very few went out and won the old ball game.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

AS you drive around the suburbs of the big cities, or the small cities for that matter, viewing with astonishment the springing up of the countless little housettes that clothe with human abode the areas that were bare fields less than a year ago, the question can-in your mind: where are people getting all the money to buy these homes?

Every one of these miniature bungalows costs at the least $8,000, and most of them a good deal more than that. Though whole hundred and two hundred-acre fields of them consist of housettes as identical as peas in a pod, the price of each and every one may be $12,000 or more. On the better streets of these suburbs in miniature, where the builders have indulged in a little variety of design, the price jumps to $16,000 or $20,000.

Let us not marvel at the prices. Let us wonder where all the money comes from.

* * *

Ladies and gentlemen, every one of the owners of those houses has had to put down somewhere in the neighborhood of 50 per cent of the cost. That means somewhere from $3,000 to $10,000 cash. In this day and age, how can anybody get together $3,000 to $10,000?

We can understand the odd person, one in a hundred, being the resistant type. But to think of literally thousands of people, young people even, being able to fight off spending to the extent of $3,000 to $10,000 is a sad reproach on the advertising profession.

What has happened to the advertising boys? Did they know, all these past three and four years, that people by the hundreds and the thousands were quietly amassing lumps of cash? Right in our midst? Think of the motor cars, television sets, washing machines—think, even, of the basement bargains those thousands of new homes represent!

Mothers-in-Law

By BOB CONSIDINE

MOTHERS-IN-LAW come in for most of the blasts, most of the derision, and most of the clumsy humor in the comics and on TV. "The humorous symbol of matrimonial difficulties," Sidonie M. Gruenberg, chairman of the National Committee for Parent Education, says of these often maligned women whose "chief crime seems to be that they raised marriageable offspring.

* * *

I was looking over one of those interesting "public affairs pamphlets" the other day, which gives a nine-point program on how to be normal even if one is a mother-in-law. Here are a few of the points:

"Both generations must be flexible about the needs and demands of the other, remembering that differences can be worked out and difficulties resolved through compromise.

"Mothers-in-law must remember that grown children have the right to make their own decisions, no matter how strongly they may feel that the young people are making a mistake.

"Mothers-in-law must avoid at all costs taking sides in young peoples' quarrels.

"It's against the rules to stir up trouble by persuading a wife or husband that he or she 'should not endure such treatment.'

* * *

"Accept daughters or sons-in-law as they are; don't try to change them or their ways. They will resent it. Go easy with suggestions.

"Remember that the relationship with an in-law will never be quite like the relationship with your own child. Don't expect it."

It must be a little tough being a mother-in-law. As wife and mother she struggles to bring up a family, gets it to a certain point after expending enough strength to lift the Queen Elizabeth out of the water, and then sees—let's say—an only daughter carried off to a cave in another city by some ugly ape she doesn't really know. It must take the patience of Mrs. Job, who probably had a little more on the ball than Job himself, to keep from trying to pull the strings for baby.

With the Classics

Morning

Now the shade is past;
Morning glances hither,
Dream and fog fly thither
Where Night goes at last;
Open eyes and roses
As the darkness closes;
And that sound that grows is
Nature waking fast . . .

All takes up its story,
Child resumes his play,
Hearth its ruddy glory,
Lute its lifted lay.
Wild or out of senses,
Through the world immense is
Sound as each commences
Schemes of yesterday.

Red Official Irked at Gold

This is the ninth of eleven articles telling the story, as it never has been possible to tell it before, of how Russia stole America's A-bomb secrets, and the people it used in the fantastic conspiracy.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(World Copyright 1951 by International News Service)

Sgt. David Greenglass, a former member of the Young Communist League who was assigned during the war to work in the world's most sacrosanct tool shop, the one in building E, Los Alamos, New Mexico, where the "Trigger" of the A-bomb was engineered, was a thorough soul.

He was not too bright but he was thorough. And his great [illegible] closed the lab in which the [illegible] was well liked.

law and sister, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg — who now face the electric chair for passing along to Russia what the unhappily-placed sergeant was able to glean at his historic work.

A month after the end of the Second World War Greenglass came back to New York and gave Julius and his sister enough information to enable them to transcribe notes descriptions and drawings of the vastly improved "lens" of the Nagasaki bomb.

The pleasure of the Rosenbergs made him feel very proud. And David joined in the laughter when Rosenberg confided to him that he had stolen a complete proximity fuse while on official business at the Emerson Radio Corporation, and had turned it over to the Russians.

FORGOTTEN RISK

David, mustered out with an honorable discharge, went to work for Julius in a machine shop. He had all but forgotten the grave risk he had taken at Los Alamos by the time Dr. Allan Nunn May, the British scientist who had delivered uranium samples and much information to the Russians while working on the A-project in Canada, was apprehended, confessed, and was given 10 years in prison.

But Dr. May and his convicted associates soon faded out of the press. David Greenglass breathed easier. He was making pretty good money working for Julius. In fact, he still had some of the $500 which Harry Gold had given to him, plus a $50 U.S. war bond which Ruth had bought at the time they received the $500.

Gold, in those early months after V-J Day and the return of Dr. Fuchs to England, found himself ignored by the apparatus for which he had been working for more than a decade. Perhaps it was just as well, he reasoned. He had taken many chances. . .

In 1946 Gold was forced to look around for a new job. The Pennsylvania Sugar Co., where he had worked for 17 years as a chemist, except for two brief periods of absence at college,

The job he accepted was one of the graver blunders of his life. He hooked on at $100 a week with the Abraham Brothman Associates, chemical research engineers who maintained a laboratory in Elmhurst, Queens. He was "chief chemist." Brothman was an old acquaintance.

Gold, too, noticed with alarm the arrest and conviction of Dr. May, but was relieved when the furore subsided. He had no way of knowing that the word "Fuchs" had appeared in Dr. May's seized notes. Fuchs was a closed incident in the life of Gold. And so, apparently, was "John" — the name by which he had known Soviet Vice-Consul Yakovlev. He had not seen or heard from "John" for a long time.

Then, 10 months after his last previous meeting with "John," on which occasion Gold turned over the last information Fuchs was to give him, Gold received in the mail two tickets to a boxing match. It was a prearranged signal, telling Gold to appear (at 8 p.m. on the date stamped on the tickets) at the Earl movie theatre near the Yankee Stadium in New York City.

But the envelope had been addressed incorrectly and had taken too long to reach him. The date on the tickets had already passed. Gold waited tensely for several days, then received a phone call at his New York laboratory. The date Dec. 26, 1946.

"Harry Gold?" the voice asked.

"Yes."

"Have you been all right?" It was Yakovlev and by that question he was asking if Gold had suspected he was being followed.

"Yes."

"I'll meet you at the theatre tonight at 8 o'clock."

Gold appeared, bought a ticket and took a seat in the upstairs lounge. Presently a huge man approached him and quickly showed him a torn slip of paper which would be recognition signal for "John's" aide.

Silently the man beckoned to Gold to leave, and took him to a pub at the corner of 42nd and Third Ave. Yakovlev was waiting with a smile. He apologized for not having contacted Gold for 10 months, inquired if he had heard from Fuchs, and got down to business. He was going to send Gold to Paris in March, 1947, to meet "a prominent physicist" and obtain information from him.

Gold was willing. He nodded and said, "I think I can arrange for leave as soon as the pressure of work at Abe Brothman's has eased up a bit."

Yakovlev sat up as if struck by an electric charge.

"You fool!" he almost shouted. The Russian dipped in his pocket, slammed down several bills on the table, and charged out of the place. Gold, struggling into his coat, followed him, whining for an explanation.

"You've spoiled eleven years of work!" the Russian thundered, while Gold trotted at his side. "You should have remembered that I told you in 1945 that Brothman was being watched by the F.B.I."

LEAVES FOR RUSSIA

Yakovlev left almost immediately for Russia, and a worried and penitent Gold went back to work for Brothman. He should have remembered and been more careful. Gold conceded. He had served briefly as Brothman's courier in the early 1940's after Elizabeth Bentley, a higher-ranking member on the Communist courier roster, had complained to her boss and lover, Communist agent Jacob Golos, that Brothman was not delivering enough valuable material for the Russians.

When Miss Bentley broke with Communism she told the F.B.I. of her relationship with Brothman and how Gold had succeeded her in this work. Brothman was called before a grand jury in 1947. He told a smooth lie, then coached Gold to confirm it during his own testimony. Gold did so, and both went free.

But the F.B.I. now had a picture of Gold and a brief dossier, as a result of that and a subsequent fruitless appearance before the jury. It was to prove one of the traps that caught him and the historic track-down of Gold, and his confession, meant that the G-men could close in on the Greenglasses and Rosenbergs, the latter couple now standing in the shadow of the electric chair.

Unfortunate Victorians Will Miss Cheering Caller

One of Santa's oldest helpers in Victoria won't be paying his calls this year.

And persons in the wards of nearly every hospital, nursing home and institution in the Greater Victoria area will miss this kind, elderly man who is as much Victoria as the City Hall.

Joe North, 73, of 1109 Johnson Street, will not be able to deliver his 700-odd baskets of fruit and nuts on Christmas Day.

He is resting comfortably in St. Joseph's Hospital following a heart attack last Sunday. His condition is "good."

For more than 35 years, "Joe" as he is known to nearly every merchant and baseball fan in Victoria has organized a Christmas cheer fund for those who might otherwise be forgotten on Christmas Day.

Mrs. North said last night that "Joe" was getting tired and it was too much for him to carry on his good work. His helper and friend, Bill Davies, died in Vancouver last year and the Christmas cheer fund is too much for one man to handle.

Example of the determination of "Joe" not to let down the people in hospitals was made about two years ago after a serious operation.

On release from hospital he decided the job must still be done. He carried on making his calls for subscriptions in a wheel-chair. He was pushed around town by a Boy Scout.

Scot Authors Get Backing

A plea that a demand be created for the works of Scottish authors by asking for them in libraries and book stores was made Tuesday night by Mrs. Mary Campbell at a regular meeting of the Burns Club in the C. and C. Hall.

Speaking on "Scottish Novelists of Today", Mrs. Campbell referred to such authors as Neil Gunn, George Blake, Eric Linklater, Jane Oliver, A. J. Cronin, David Walker and Compton MacKenzie.

Among the entertainers at the meeting were Jimmy Matheson and boy soprano Billy Hastings who sang several numbers.

Bishop Dedicates Memorials

Bishop Harold E. Sexton dedicated two war memorial honor boards at the University School yesterday. The ceremony was presided over by headmaster J. J. Timmis, assisted by school chaplain, Rev. N. A. Lowe.

Students, parents and friends attended the ceremony in the school hall, where Lieut.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt, V.C., unveiled a memorial in memory of the old boys of University School who served and fell in two wars, and Surg. Lieut.-Cmdr. M. D. Young, R.C.N. (R) unveiled a plaque to those old boys from Brentwood College who had died for their country in the Second World War.

Brentwood College, founded in 1926, was destroyed by fire in 1947.

A wreath was placed beside each of the boards, which listed names of the students who fell. Trophies and pictures will be placed in the school hall as a further memorial.

The striking hall, built two years ago on the top two floors of one of the buildings, was constructed through funds donated by former students.

Another $8,000 is needed to build an adjoining stage and dressing rooms which will complete the project.

Sooke Float Extension Set in 1952

Additional accommodation at the Sooke float is assured during the coming year, according to information received from the fisheries department, Ottawa, by the first meeting of the Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce.

Members also heard that the community would soon have a resident doctor, obtained through efforts of Dr. T. W. A. Gray.

The chamber voted to join the newly formed B.C. Chamber of Commerce, but voted unanimously against the practice of resale price maintenance.

It was agreed to protest the change recently made in the mail schedule throughout the district.

Mrs. W. Conder was re-appointed secretary - treasurer and the following were appointed to committees: G. Oliver, J. Reeves, F. Thornbar, A. F. Brownsey, D. DeRochie, Dr. McCauley, R. Gibson, H. G. Rough, J. LaVertue, W. Conder, J. Yost, J. Martin, J. Elliott and J. Hunter.

Britain's Miners Close to Target

LONDON, Dec. 19 (Reuters).—If Britain's miners dig more than 8,855,300 tons of coal during the next two weeks, they will exceed the target of 224,000,000 tons set by the government for 1951. Last week's output was 4,909,300 tons—the best since June, 1940.

Winter's Writing on Wall

Canada Geese Return To Lake for Winter

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Nimmo of Langford Lake are going to have two unusual Yuletide guests.

The pair who came to dinner are Canada geese and Mrs. Nimmo said yesterday she was sure they were the same two which "we fed all last winter. They flew in Sunday," she added, "and arrived promptly at our dock to be fed."

There were five young ones with the geese when they came last year, but this year they came alone.

"I'm sure they're regular migrants and not from Elk Lake," said Mrs. Nimmo.

B.C. Turkeys Fewer, Surplus Improbable

A net decline of 13 per cent in British Columbia's turkey population from the 1950 total of 347,630 birds will prevent any possibility of a surplus to be marketed this season, the provincial agriculture department reports.

Prices are from two cents to seven cents a pound higher than last year, the department adds.

British Columbia breeders are in a position to supply the major portion of the coast demand, although Alberta shipments are still considerable. Last year Alberta exported 520,000 pounds to B.C., the department said.

Several large outlets are featuring eviscerated vacuum-packed turkeys at 83-84 cents a pound for 16 pounds and under. There is a shortage of lightweight birds, it was reported.

Among other poultry offerings, Grade A Alberta geese are on the coast market at from 55 cents a pound. Alberta ducks are obtainable from 57 cents a pound.

Limited supplies of Grade A capons are offered at prices on a par with top-priced turkeys. Roasting chickens and broilers are averaging from 65 and 52 cents at Vancouver, the report added.

BONDS QUIET

MONTREAL, Dec. 19 (CP).—Trading was quiet today in the Government of Canada, provincial and municipal sections of the Montreal bond market. On the corporate market, main interest was in C.P.R. convertibles, with both the 3½'s and 8¼'s firmer.

Average weekly earnings in Canadian industry reached an all-time peak of $50.50 at Sept. 1, 1951, as compared to $44.17 a year previously.

Two Buying Surges Boost New York Stock Prices

By AP and CP

Two surges of buying, one near the close, sent the New York stock market ahead Wednesday for its best gains in about two weeks.

Dollarwise the gains were not too great, running to between one and two points at the best with a few exceptions.

Leadership on the rise was impressive. It was concentrated in oils, steels, motors, rubbers and rails.

After the market closed, the stock exchange reported a decrease of 111,662 shares in the short interest from Nov. 15 to Dec. 14. On the latest date it came to 2,450,584 shares. It was the second straight fall.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 40 cents at $98.30 with the industrial component up 60 cents, rails up 60 cents and utilities down 10 cents.

Volume came to 1,510,000 shares as compared with 1,290,000 shares traded Tuesday.

In Toronto, gradually strengthening support edged stock market prices slowly higher toward the session's close.

Liquors and refining oils led the market with a scattered list of fractional advances. Papers and miscellaneous industrials drew firm support. Constructions, steels and banks held gains and losses in balance, but foods, manufacturing companies and retail stores weakened.

A wide list of penny golds attracted speculative interest. Volume for the session was about 1,600,000 shares.

For the third consecutive session, the list was trendless with changes limited to fractions. However, the odd issue showed wider movement.

At Vancouver, prices were mixed in western oil and base metal issues. Golds remained steady.

Prices were irregularly lower—especially rye—on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Trading showed seasonal dullness, coincidental with the close of navigation on the Great Lakes.

Only routine shipper demand appeared in oats and barley.

London Market Turns Gloomy

LONDON, Dec. 19 (Reuters).—Disturbed by a statement from the Federation of British Industries recommending a dividend policy of moderation and restraint, the stock exchange was in a gloomy mood today.

Prices in practically all sections moved lower. Dealers reported very little stocks on offer.

Falls of one shilling were shown by industrials with nearly every group registering dullness. Shippings, however, were hesitant and firm on speculative inquiry.

With the approach of the Christmas holidays active interest in markets generally is decreasing.

Court Orders New Hearings

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 19 (AP).—The Idaho Supreme Court today reversed a Public Utilities Commission order granting Trans-Northwest Gas, Inc., of Spokane, Wash., a certificate to transport natural gas into Idaho from Canada.

The court, in a unanimous decision, ordered the P.U.C. to conduct another hearing and to give officials of Northwest Natural Gas Company a chance to be heard.

Trans-Northwest applied for similar rights in Washington State, but later withdrew its petition. A number of Washington counties, however, have granted Trans-Northwest rights to install pipelines.

Northwest Natural, in appealing the case to the Idaho Supreme Court, contended that the P.U.C. did not have jurisdiction and that it was within the power of the Federal Power Commission to issue the permit.

Receipts Of Crude Increase

OTTAWA, Dec. 19 (CP).—Receipts of crude petroleum at Canadian refineries increased during September and the first nine months of this year over the corresponding periods a year ago.

The Bureau of Statistics reported today that receipts climbed one-third during the month and 24 per cent in the cumulative period. Receipts amounted to 12,6[illegible]377 barrels during September compared with 9,490,366 a year earlier, bringing the nine-month total to 97,030,804 barrels as against 78,150,437.

Domestic crude receipts rose sharply while there were moderate gains in imports. Receipts of Canadian crude amounted to 4,989,593 barrels compared with 2,415,895, and the nine-month total was 34,046,239 barrels as against 19,400,087. Supplies of imported crude totaled 7,667,794 barrels as against 7,074,471, bringing nine-month receipts to 62,984,565 barrels from 58,750,350.

Output of refined petroleum products increased to 10,676,985 barrels from 9,639,282 in September last year, while the nine-month total rose to 87,333,071 barrels from 74,485,494.

Trade Minister Assures Loans to Prairie Farmers

OTTAWA, Dec. 19 (CP) — Trade Minister Clarence Howe said today that banks have agreed as a public service to make loans available to western farmers under the government's 25-per-cent guarantee and no farmer will be turned down if he meets the regulations.

He was commenting on a Regina report that Premier J. T. Douglas of Saskatchewan feared many western farmers will not [illegible] under the government plan. Mr. Douglas said he has written Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent on that point.

Mr. Douglas believed there might be cases where a farmer, traveling 40 or 50 miles to reach a bank, might have his application turned down by a bank manager who is not familiar with his circumstances and who may be unwilling to extend a loan on the basis of the government's limited guarantee.

Mr. Howe said he did not believe such cases would develop. The farmer had a grain delivery book in his possession showing the amount of grain he had and the amount delivered to the Canadian Wheat Board.

The banks will make the loan on the basis of those delivery book estimates, providing, of [illegible] other government regulations.

The loans are for the purpose of providing temporary loans up to a maximum of $1,000 per farmer to tide him over the winter months if he has been financially hit by harvesting, storage and transportation problems this year.

The government has undertaken to guarantee 25 per cent of the total loans, putting up $5,000,000 to cover possible losses [illegible] 000,000.

PROFIT REDUCED

MONTREAL, Dec. 19 (CP).—The Royal Bank of Canada today reported net profit of $6,306,115 for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1951, compared with $6,559,725 for the previous fiscal year.

Net profit per share was $1.80, against $1.87 last year.

Mining Notes

Deemed impossible, a process has now been patented to alloy magnesium with iron and steel, increasing resistance to corrosion.

Opinions differ, but a price reduction, already eased, of base metals seems possible, as the U.S. government will draw copper, lead and zinc from stock-piles during the next few months.

United Keno's recently completed 350-ton cyanide plant will increase recovery of silver from 82 to 94 per cent.

Canadian Exp: (B.C.) Placer Dev: sub: has arranged sale of its tungsten production through to 1958. Within two years, the 300-ton mill will increase to 500-600 tons.

Torbrit Silver (B.C.) net profit $587,300 from 102,289 tons milled ore during first nine months 1951.

"Consolidated" will expend $2,750,000 to bring "H.B." mine (Salmo, B.C.) into production by end 1952, to mill 1,000 tons daily.

Yale Lead and Zinc (B.C.) income tax exempt until October, 1954.

The Swedish scientist, Cronstadt, isolated and discovered nickel 200 years ago.

Net profit—Quemont, 1951—expected about $2.60 per share.

Operating at 9,650 feet, Ooregum Gold Mine, India, is the deepest.

Imperial Oil spent $23,000,000 drilling 133 dry holes before Leduc blew in. Shell Oil spent $11,000,000 and found a "gasser" at Jumping Pound.

Drill-indicated gold-copper ore reserves at Chibougamou Explorers 700,000 tons, averaging $15.85 per ton. Financing arranged with $1,273,750, providing all options exercised.

Several million tons low-grade tungsten ore deposits, widths to 150 feet, open-pit mining possible, being explored near Dillon, Montana.

Closed for 50 years, the Herminia copper mine, Massey, Ont., is being drill-inspected by Teck-Hughes.

Mexico minting "hard" money—1,000,000 five-peso silver pieces, 72 per cent silver, 28 per cent copper.

Union Carbide and Carbon have borrowed $300,000,000 on 100-year notes, interest 3¾ per cent, split evenly between Metropolitan and Prudential Life Insurance Companies.

LONDON INDEX

LONDON, Dec. 19 (AP).—The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 722.7, off 0.8.

Oil Drillers Require Quick Saint Nick

EDMONTON, Dec. 19 (CP).—Santa Claus will have to catch Alberta oil drilling crews between shifts on Christmas Day.

As on any of the other 364 days of the year, these men will be drilling for oil.

Ever since the Leduc discovery well was brought in Feb. 13, 1947, to touch off the Alberta oil boom, drill bits have been biting into the oil formations continuously.

Asked if there would be any let-up this Christmas, an Edmonton oil man, with a touch of Texas in his voice, said, "Good gracious, no"—or at least the oil man's equivalent of "good gracious."

"We've never stopped working on any Christmas Day yet," he said, "and I don't see why this one will be any different."

The men who fly the interprovincial pipeline company patrol will have a work-free Christmas Day. With the 1,150 miles of pipeline from Edmonton to Superior, Wis., divided into sections, aircraft fly over the entire line once a week looking for any faults.

Oil refineries will keep only skeleton crews on duty.

The operating crews in the field—pumpers, drillers, gaugers, roughnecks—will have to take their Christmas on the fly. They will do their regular shifts, protected from the cold at drilling rigs only by improvised plywood or canvas shelters.

They'll go home when their shift is done. In many cases, home will be a trailer on skids or a bunkhouse.

Today's Dollar

MONTREAL, Dec. 19, (CP) — The United States dollar today closed at 2 5/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 1/16 from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.02 5/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.85½, down ½ from Tuesday.

Middleweights Compromise At 11-Rounder

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (AP). — Paddy Young of New York and Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N.J., all even after three fights, signed for a fourth match today over the unusual 11-round route, Jan. 11, at Madison Square Garden.

Matchmaker Al Weill of the International Boxing Club said the unique 11-round bout was a compromise between Durando's request for a 12-rounder and Young's demands for a 10.

Young was an easy winner in the first bout of this middleweight series in 1950. Durando took the second match, and the furious third,

Dirty Basketball in Dark Played in U.S. Says Russia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (AP) — Moscow is telling the Russians that the United States has taken up two new sports — holding the breath and blind basketball.

A Soviet domestic broadcast reported today by U.S. government monitors included these among "sport distortions" which Moscow said demonstrated capitalist decadence.

One of the sports is "lying down in a coffin as long as one can stand without breathing, which often ends with the participant's death," the broadcast said.

... being a record," it went on. "Wrestling, which attracts crowds of spectators, is being developed in the U.S. Wrestling where the wrestlers can bite, kick and gouge each other's eyes and even use weapons, is also popular in the U.S.

Regaining License Difficult

A judgment handed down recently in County Court by Judge A. [illegible] Nanaimo indicating [illegible] prompted two Victoria men to ask for their license back.

Roy Frank Edwards, 2245 [illegible] driver's license suspended for one year by Magistrate A. I. Thomas. He was charged under the new section of the code.

Yesterday Edwards applied to the R.C.M.P. for [illegible] but was told it could not be returned without authority from a court of law.

He went to the County Court [illegible] to get a court order for the return of his license.

The clerk told Edwards he would have to get a lawyer to make out the necessary forms.

Edwards couldn't understand why he should be put to the expense of hiring a lawyer to get his license back "which shouldn't have been cancelled at [illegible]."

"It's the principle of the thing," he said. "Why shouldn't police return my license if a judge says that magistrates had not the power to cancel drivers' licenses. I don't like the idea of having to pay a lawyer for a mistake the Crown made."

He said the strange thing about it is that the lawyer who has nothing to do with the case "cashes in on the Crown's mistake."

NOT DEFENDING SELF

Edwards says no reason why he should take the case to court again. "I am not defending myself," he declared.

He is going to wait and see what other motorists who face [illegible].

A second driver, L. C. Evel[illegible], Oswego, also convicted of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, said last night that he has filed an appeal for the return of his license which was suspended for a year.

He was convicted by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court and was fined $200 with the alternative of serving [illegible] days in jail.

He took the 10 days.

NOTHING OFFICIAL

[illegible] said last night that he had asked the [illegible] to return his license last Saturday.

"I was told that at the present moment there was nothing official at the attorney-general's department on return of the license," he said.

PARIS, Dec. 19 (AP) — A conference of European atomic scientists meeting here to consider foundation of an international nuclear physics laboratory yesterday recommended Copenhagen as a suitable site. Fourteen countries are represented at the conference.

B.C. 1952 Health Costs, $8,835,000

British Columbia will pay $8,[illegible] for health services and cost-of-living bonuses to old age pensioners and blind persons, Health Minister A. D. Turnbull said yesterday.

The services and the bonus are expected to [illegible].

[illegible] for the bonus and health services was made [illegible] an order in council, Mr. Turnbull said. It calls for the two to be given persons who will start of Jan. 1 the federal pension of the blind persons allowance.

The services are designed to give complete health care with [illegible] and also [illegible] within the maximum income allowed.

The bonus, ranging upward to $10 per person monthly, requires a person to have lived in the province for at least three years before application and to have an income less than the maximum allowed.

Health services require a person to have lived one year in B.C. and to qualify under income regulations.

The services include payment of B.C. Hospital Insurance premiums [illegible].

Total pension costs next year will be [illegible] over this year as a result of the new [illegible] authorized by the special [illegible] session in October, [illegible].

Food Stall May Close, Gifts Few

Increasing difficulty in getting donations and fatigue on the part of voluntary workers may have tolled the death knell for Mrs. Barbara Green's free food stall—a spontaneous plan which has warmed the hearts of thousands and filled the cupboards of hundreds.

Mrs. Green, who originated the scheme, said last night: "I just don't see how we can keep on having a stall day every two weeks as we have been; food supplies are becoming harder and harder to get.

"And besides that, I and my helpers are going to take a much needed rest. It is just possible that we may open the stall again sometime in February."

Last scheduled stall day in the city market will be this Saturday and Mrs. Green said that every effort has been made in the last two weeks to [illegible] as much food as possible to [illegible] the people in need as long as possible."

Many items of foodstuffs have been donated by Sunday school pupils of the [illegible] Church and View Royal. The stall director said that more than 150 youngsters donated something, mostly tinned goods.

A $10 contribution from the Optimist Club will be used to buy 25 to 30 fowl. With other cash on hand Mrs. Green said she will probably purchase [illegible] beef.

"This will mean that half the needy will [illegible] tickets will get fowl and the remainder beef."

Each person applying will receive a portion of a large ham which was donated by the [illegible] and a big bag of peanut brittle from [illegible] given by a [illegible] candy firm.

Include Unique Proposal

Mayor's Memories Span Seven Years

By RAY BAINES

A woman walked into the city hall not so long ago accompanied by her attractive daughter and floored Mayor George with this question:

"Would you mind marrying my daughter?"

After the mayor had recovered his composure and [illegible] voice the woman went on to explain that she would like the mayor to stand as a proxy for her prospective son-in-law who was then out of town.

"For the sake of marital contentment I diplomatically declined," the mayor said yesterday.

The mayor, who has presided over Victoria's civic affairs for seven years, was a little nostalgic yesterday as he turned back the pages.

He recalled many incidents, including the proposal episode, which go to make the job of chief magistrate sometimes trying, but mostly satisfying.

ELECTED 1944

First elected over Mayor Andrew McGavin in 1944, Mayor George was re-elected in 1945, 1946 and 1947 by acclamation. Following approval by the voters, the mayor's term of office became two years in 1947 and Mayor George remained in office until 1949.

That year he defeated Aubrey Kent by a close margin and has been in office until his retirement this month.

"When I came to office in 1944, I faced the situation of an empty larder," he said yesterday. "The city then had a $750,000 bank overdraft and accounts to be settled, and little equipment to carry on improvement work, he added.

During the 12 years previous, because of the depression and then the war, "little had been done."

"I regret that the councils of the latter war years did not raise the mill rate to create a reserve for the back log of work to be carried out in the post-war years," he said.

POWERLESS

He said the post-war councils were powerless to stop the steady increase in the mill rate because of the demand for improvements and the general rise in costs.

"I felt that my first duty in those days was to encourage a [illegible] on these necessary improvements," he said.

But it has not all been headaches. There have been pleasant and humorous experiences to last Mayor George the rest of his life.

Such as the time he was to pay a formal visit to a British admiral aboard the H.M.S. Norfolk and ended up on the H.M.C.S. Ontario by mistake.

DUE 11 A.M.

Due to go aboard the British ship at 11 a.m., the mayor and his policeman chauffeur drew up on the jetty along side what they thought was the Norfolk.

"I sensed something was wrong when I balanced precariously on the tiny gangway [illegible]

[illegible] He stopped the guard to attention and said:

"How nice of you, Mr. Mayor, to pay a visit to the Ontario before you go aboard the Norfolk!"

The guard of honor had been drawn up because the Ontario was apparently expecting a visit from the British admiral.

SAVED DAY

"I'll never cease to be grateful to Lt.-Cmdr. Budge for saving the day," the mayor laughed.

[illegible]

Mayor George recalled that one of his most enjoyable experiences [illegible] Governor-General Viscount Alexander and Lady Alexander.

"He is a man of great [illegible]

STOP FOR LUNCH

[illegible]

"I was very proud," he said, "not so much because [illegible] because I felt they must have thoroughly enjoyed their visit to Victoria."

He said also he would "always remember with pleasure the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip."

But the mayoralty has its rough spots and disappointments too.

Mayor George's greatest disappointment?

"I would very much like to have seen a new city hall in the capital city," he stated yesterday.

He said the "need and desirability" of a new city hall was evident not just because of the reputation Victoria has for its beauty, but because "the outward sign of civic consciousness is usually expressed in the form of a civic centre which does justice to the city."

The city has the land, the [illegible] but not the money, the mayor said.

[illegible]

REGRETS

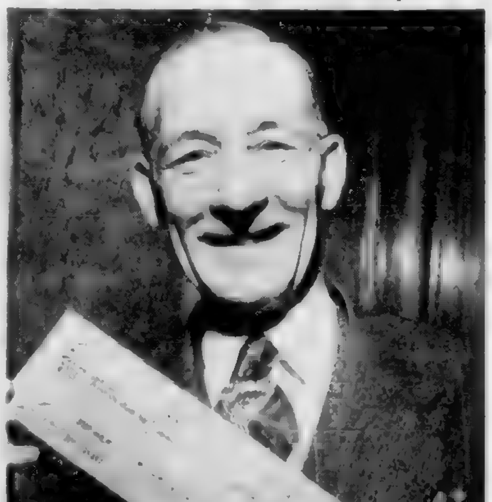
Putting his things in order yesterday, Mayor George said he regretted leaving, but was looking forward to a relief [illegible]

[illegible] payers, the council, and the [illegible] commented.

What now? After a "three-months rest, away from it all," rumors have it that he will take a position with the provincial government.

"I'm pretty young yet," said Victoria's 61-year-old mayor.

City Gets King-Size Cheque



How'd you like to get a cheque like this for a Christmas present? Mayor Percy George opened his mail yesterday morning to find a provincial government "gift" of $287,918.31, the city's six-month share of the Municipal and Social Service Aid Tax. "Unfortunately most of it has already been spent," the mayor commented. Cameraman Jim Ryan and reporter Ray Baines were allowed to hold the cheque briefly before the picture was taken.

Rush Helpers Already Chosen

—AROUND TOWN—

There have been no demands for high school students as extra Christmas help in retail stores, the National Employment Service here reported yesterday.

The N.E.S. said that larger stores [illegible] lists of available help and [illegible] students would be available only for about two days because of the late beginning of their holidays.

Quite a number of university and college students had been placed in temporary jobs, mostly in the post office, the service added.

The Arts Centre, Moss Street, will close at 5.30 p.m., Dec. 22, and will not reopen until Jan. 4.

Mayor Percy George was made a life member and the honorary president of the New Imperials Club at the club's annual Christmas dinner.

The New Imperials who welcome "new Canadians" from Commonwealth nations, have been functioning three years.

Mayor George, who came here from England in 1908, suggested that "the land of adoption should be the first choice in their thoughts and ideals."

Leftovers

By THE CHEF

Another "leftover" suggestion - this time, a dessert.

Make a cranberry mince pie by stirring the contents of 1 cup of cranberry sauce until broken in pieces and then combining it with 1 cup of mince meat. You'll probably have these left over and wonder what to do with them. Fill an unbaked pastry shell with the mixture, crisscrossing the top with lattice strips of pastry. Bake in [illegible] then [illegible] heat to moderate, and bake for 25 minutes longer. Serve hot or cold as you wish. I prefer it hot.

Cranberries for Christmas

Recipes for Yuletide Cranberry Relishes

It's the season for cranberry [illegible]

CRANBERRY FRUIT RELISH

One orange and [illegible] one pound can [illegible] jellied cranberry sauce, one cup [illegible] pineapple, drained [illegible]

Put orange and [illegible] through food chopper. Combine with cranberry sauce and [illegible] pineapple. Store in covered [illegible] refrigerator overnight so flavors will blend.

Cut grapefruit in half and [illegible] Put juice and pulp through a sieve. Crush cranberry sauce with a fork. Add strained grapefruit and pepper[illegible] extract. Pour into freezing [illegible]

SURPRISE CRANBERRY RELISH

Two tablespoons orange rind, two tablespoons coarsely chopped walnuts, two tablespoons pickle relish or finely minced sweet pickle, one pound can whole cranberry sauce.

Cut orange rind in strips with scissors. Use just the orange portion of the peel. Mix with nuts and pickle relish. Combine with cranberry sauce. Chill for one hour or overnight. Serve [illegible]

GINGER CRANBERRY SAUCE

[illegible] can jellied cranberry sauce or 1 can whole cranberry sauce, half cup raisins, half large unpeeled orange, and three quarters teaspoon powdered ginger.

Crush jellied cranberry sauce with a fork. Put raisins and orange through food chopper, using coarse blade. Combine cranberry sauce, raisins, orange and powdered ginger. Store in refrigerator in covered dish overnight or at least several hours so that flavors will blend.

FROZEN CRANBERRY RELISH

Mincemeat Time Now

By THE CHEF

From my grandmother's precious recipe files comes this gem. Get a large kettle, and in it combine all these ingredients: ½ pound of lean boiled beef, chopped; ½ pound of suet, chopped; 3½ pounds of raw apples, chopped (and peeled, of course); ½ pound of currants; 1 pound of seeded raisins, chopped, and 3 ounces each of candied orange peel, candied lemon peel and citron, all chopped. Now add a tablespoon of salt and the grated rind of three lemons. Mix well, stir in [illegible] cups of brown sugar and season with 3 tablespoons of cinnamon, 2 tablespoons of nutmeg and a teaspoon of ginger. Pour 5 cups of cider over the works.

Let simmer gently for 2 hours, stirring from time to time. Let cool, then pour into sterilized jars and store in a cool place until ready for use.

When you are ready to make the pies, line a pie plate with pastry, fill with the mincemeat and cover with a pastry top. Bake at about 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce the temperature to 350 degrees, and bake for 30 minutes more.

BOAR'S HEAD FEAST

Some 500 years ago, so the story goes, an Oxford University student was studying Aristotle while taking a walk when he was attacked by a wild boar. He calmly despatched the brute by thrusting the volume down its throat. His feat is commemorated annually at Queen's College by the Boar's Head Feast on Christmas Day. Although the 90-pound specimen under whose weight two attendants used to stagger is today replaced by a papier mache model, the spirit of the ceremony remains unchanged. As the choir sings the last notes of a traditional carol, the head is placed on the table of the provost, the principal of the college. The provost then presents the ornaments and embellishments one by one to the choirboys and visitors, the solo singer receiving the orange.

Baked Plum Pudding

By THE CHEF

You may elect to buy your plum pudding ready made for the great day, but in case you want to try your hand at making your own, here is a fine old New England recipe.

Melt 3 tablespoons of butter in a quart of scalded milk and pour over 3 cups of bread crumbs. Add ½ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs beaten, 1 cup of brown sugar, ¾ cup of molasses, a pound of raisins, ½ pound of currants, ½ teaspoon each of mace and cinnamon, and ½ teaspoon of ground cloves. Mix well, and bake for 3 or 4 hours in a moderately slow oven. Stir once or twice to prevent crust from forming at first. Serve with hard sauce.

Congress Asks Full Report From Council

Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has requested a full report of the Victoria and District Labor Council of setting a firm on the unfair list when an affiliate union holds an agreement with the company.

[illegible] the council has kept Stewart & Hudson Ltd. on a "we do not patronize" list after the teamsters union had asked removal of the ban. Council action could be at variance with two sections of the T.L.C. constitution, the letter said.

The report will be sent by the council.

Bakers Accept Wage Proposal

Sixty-five employees of three Victoria bakeries have accepted a $10 weekly wage boost unanimously recommended by a conciliation board.

Bakers' union organizer T. Gunderman said last night that the employees were from M. Gavin's Ltd., Weston's and Canadian Bakeries Ltd.

Union attempt to obtain a five-day work week was unsuccessful. The union now has a six-day 40-hour work week, he said.

"Restrictions Unfair"

Civic Workers Ask Residence Ban Lifted

All civic employees should be able to reside outside Victoria city limits, Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.) decided last night.

Council endorsed a motion requesting that the city lift its requirements that civic servants live within city boundaries. The motion was moved by a spokesman for Greater Victoria Firefighters' Association. He said his members felt the restriction "unfair."

[illegible] commented Eaton Thayer, Machinists' delegate.

"For efficient civil defense all essential services must eventually be amalgamated throughout the area."

The regulations also "infringe on citizenship," he added.

Firefighters' delegate said the association was asking only that members be allowed to reside in Esquimalt, Oak Bay or Saanich.

B.C. Sportsman W. Wolfenden Dies Aged 75

Funeral services will be held today in Vancouver for Walter [illegible] Wolfenden, 75, a veteran of the trail of '98 and a well-known B.C. sportsman.

A native of Victoria, he was the son of the late Col. Richard Wolfenden, a member of the first contingent of Royal Engineers to arrive in the province in 1858 and the first Queen's Printer for B.C.

Mr. Wolfenden left a provincial government job to join the Klondike gold rush, later settling in the Okanagan Valley.

He was known as the "father of lacrosse" in the valley. Earlier he had been a member of the famous James Bay lacrosse team of Victoria, first joining it in 1902.

In later years he devoted himself to golf, helping form the Qualicum Club. He was a charter member of the Vancouver Kiwanis Club.

He was a keen hunter and fisherman.

Surviving him are his widow, at home in Vancouver, two sons, [illegible] Wolfenden of Victoria and [illegible]; one daughter, Mrs. [illegible]; [illegible] sisters, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. Madge Wolfenden, Victoria, and Mrs. Guy Constable, Creston, and two brothers, Victor in Vancouver and Jack in Santa Rosa, California.

Geologists Speak At Friday Meet

Speakers are Drs. M. S. Hedley and S. S. Holland, geologists of the mineralogical branch of the B.C. department of mines.

The key call in this auction was South's rebid of his four-card suit, in the face of West's heart bid.

South had been deeply impressed with North's bid of one no-trump over one spade ... thereby announced a heart stopper, and, South's heart holding being what it was, that stopper had to be the king. Thus, South was assured of four solid heart tricks, and West's bid might either have been entirely psychic, ... have one four-card ... suit.

It is true that sound defense would have defeated the four-heart contract, but there was a chance for the enemy to slip, and ... West ... king and seven of diamonds. He should have opened the diamond ...

Departments in Dark On Sales Tax Formula

At least two provincial government departments are in the dark concerning reports of a new distribution formula for the 3 per cent sales tax.

Municipal affairs deputy minister, B. C. Bracewell, and finance department deputy minister, J. V. Fisher, both said they had no word on the new plan to be presented to the 1952 legislature.

Each said new plans put forward by municipalities would be accepted' plan has been seen. Municipalities, who have an employee studying possible new distribution methods, have been advised of what pitfalls could be reached in new plans, Mr. Fisher said.

It was reported the government is considering earmarking sales tax grants for education and social services, but deducting the social service costs before distribution.

Presidential Unit Citation Awarded to Athabaskan

The destroyer H.M.C.S. Athabaskan, commanded successively by two Victoria naval men, and now on her second period of operational duty in the Far East, has been awarded a Presidential Unit Citation for her service under the United Nations flag.

President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea, made the award and signed the citation which states, "The performance of this ship merits the highest praise."

The Athabaskan was under command of Cmdr. R. P. Welland of Victoria during her first tour from July 1950 to May 1951. Since July 1951 the destroyer has been commanded by Cmdr. D. G. King of Victoria.

The citation reads in part:

"It (the Athabaskan) has taken part with great credit in all types of operations, including support of the Inchon landing.

"In carrying out operations along enemy occupied coast this was the first U.N. ship to organize and land raiding parties from its own crew to harry the enemy, to collect valuable information and to make contact with friendly personnel."

Railway Spokesmen Plan Parley

Committees of the Pacific Great Eastern and Canadian National Railways will meet at Prince George on Jan. 15 to discuss possible interchange of facilities, it was reported yesterday.

J. M. Stewart, P.G.E. construction engineer, said neither committee will make final decisions on the possible interchange of facilities but will recommend to directors of each line.

Preliminary discussions concerning the two lines were held in Victoria last month.

Interchange of facilities would be possible when the P.G.E. completes its lines to Prince George. Such work is now being done.

Is Christmas a Holiday For Telephone Operators?
NO!
Normally all telephone operators will be on the job handling local and long-distance calls that add so much to your happiness at Christmas.
Some of your Christmas long-distance calls will be delayed, but your telephone operator will reach your party as fast as possible.
Because lines are overloaded all over the continent, you will get better service on your call by placing it a few days before or after Christmas.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - - By Howard Garis

THE PAINTED STONE

Uncle Wiggily had been awakened from his sleep in the easy chair when Tommie Kat tickled the rabbit gentleman on his pink nose. Mr. Longears had been dreaming and when he woke up he thought the three foxes were chasing him.

"Are you sure it was a dream, Nurse Jane?" the rabbit gentleman asked his muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Oh, yes, it was only a dream," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I have been here all afternoon and no foxes came into the bungalow. We had but one visitor."

"Who was the visitor?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"It was Tommie Kat," replied Nurse Jane, pointing at the pussy boy. "I was just talking to your mother on the telephone, Tommie," said Nurse Jane. "She wants you to come home before dark."

"I will come as soon as I have some fun in the sand pile," mewed the pussy boy. "May I play in it, Uncle Wiggily?" Buster and Bunty said I might if you said it was all right."

"Of course it is all right," answered Mr. Longears. "You had better hurry out and play in the sand before it gets any darker. But I would like to know who awakened me from my sleep when I was dreaming that I was being chased by three foxes. Who woke me up?"

'Golly! That's swell!'

"I did," answered Tommie, "I tickled you with my tail on your pink, twinkling nose. I hope I did not wake you up too soon."

"Oh, no," said Uncle Wiggily kindly. "It was time for me to wake up. Is supper ready, Nurse Jane?"

"Not yet, Mr. Longears. But it will be soon. Now you run out and play in the sand, Tommie Kat."

The pussy boy ran out of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. He was soon playing in the sand pile near the garage with the rabbit children. It was still light enough for Tommie to see to make a sand airplane.

"Golly, that's swell!" said Buster.

"I wish I could make a sand airplane like that," said Bunty the orphan rabbit.

"I will show you how," Tommie kindly offered. But all of a sudden it became very dark so the children could no longer see how to make castles, tunnels and railroad tracks in the sand.

"I must run home," said Tommie. "Or else my mother will be worried about me."

So Tommie Kat ran home. Nurse Jane called the rabbit children to their suppers and Uncle Wiggily told them about the funny dream he had about being chased by foxes.

The next day, when the other rabbit children had hopped to Hollow Tree School to recite their lessons to the Lady Mouse Teacher, Jingle and Jangle hopped into Nurse Jane's kitchen.

"Aren't you little twins going to school today?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"No, thank you," answered Jingle.

"We have the sniffles, if you please," said Jangle.

"And the snuffles," added Jingle.

"Oh, well," said Nurse Jane kindly, "if you have the sniffles and the snuffles again and maybe are coming down with a cold, you need not go to school. But it is a warm, sunny day. It will do your cold good to play in the sun. Hop out to the sand pile."

Jingle and Jangle hopped out to the sand pile. They dug holes and filled them up. Then they dug more holes. Suddenly Jingle called:

"Oh, Jangle! Look what I have found!"

"What is it?" asked Jangle.

"It is a beautiful painted rock," answered Jingle. "Come on! We will show this painted rock to Nurse Jane."

The little rabbit twins carried what they called a painted rock to the bungalow. And something strange happened that night.

I will tell you about it tomorrow, if the front door doesn't pop off its hinges to go visit the back door and forget to come in time to keep out the cold wind.

City Hospital Meets Budget Deadline

One Victoria hospital was among three larger institutions of 14 which met the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service deadline for 1952 budgets, it was reported yesterday.

The hospitals which met Saturday's deadline included Royal Jubilee, Vancouver General and St. Vincent's Hospitals.

Seventy-six hospitals are subject to the deadline, the service said. Local problems were believed by the H.I.S. as responsible for the delays. Letters requesting the budgets as soon as possible have been sent out by the service.

Believed among the causes for sending budgets late are labor disputes. The Labor Relations Board yesterday announced that conciliation boards have been appointed between employees and hospitals at Nelson and Kamloops.

International Union of Operating Engineers (T.L.C.) have reached agreement with Grace Hospital, Vancouver, the board also announced. Settlement includes an upward revision of wages and changes in sick leave provisions.

Christmas Gift

Opening in March For Blind Centre

Victoria's blind citizens yesterday received a Christmas gift from Eric Brettell, their honorary director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

At their annual Christmas party held yesterday at T. Eaton Company dining room, Mr. Brettell told more than 200 persons that the new C.N.I.B. Hobby Centre, now under construction on Blanshard Street, will be officially opened in the first week in March.

He praised the contractors and architects for the "wonderful job" they are doing and said everything possible was being done to make the building comfortable for the blind.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watling, chairman of the party and president of the Victoria White Cane Club, urged all those who were not club members to join as soon as possible.

Mrs. Nancy Hodges, guest speaker, gave a humorous address on her recent trip to Great Britain.

She said that she couldn't imagine the Canadian people taking the British diet "without a lot of kicking."

Mrs. Hodges said the British diet was extremely dull and the meat ration had been cut again.

"To look at the meat ration makes me thing you are looking through the wrong end of the telescope," she said.

Mrs. Hodges said, however, that the British people do not grumble but she couldn't say the same for Canadians.

"I heard more grumbling in three days when I came back to Victoria than during the whole two months I was over there," she declared.

Light Plane Passengers Unscathed

Fears for the safety of a light American plane and its three passengers missing on a flight to Buttle Lake last Sunday, were reported groundless last night by R.C.M.P. officials.

The light plane received minor damage on landing and the passengers were made comfortable at the home of Harry Rogers, year-round resident.

Tuesday afternoon pilot Wally Wiggins of B.C. Air Lines flew through a snowstorm to the lake to investigate the plane's disappearance.

Passengers in the plane were Dr. Robert Morton, Fred Parr, and a third man from Seattle, identified only as Mr. Kleghorn. Kleghorn returned to Seattle yesterday but the other men remained behind to help salvage the half-submerged plane.
